Online meeting will be a bit messy this month; Muz, our Zoom connection, left SEUL, and I haven't made contact with his successor, so I'm left trying to figure out how to get an online meeting going with no account. Google Meet is pretty good, but the free version has no dial-in options, and I know some of you like that. So I'm going to try Jitsi -- I've heard it's good, but I've never tried it before, so I consider this experimental. I'll try to show up a few minutes early. If we can't get it to work, our fallback will be the Google Meet link I've added below.

If this does not work, try this (no dial in option)

If you still can't find us, please send me an email: chris@handpdx.org (or call if you know my cell number). I'll try to keep an eye on my email for the first part of the meeting to help any stragglers get connected.
